Literally it means 'it has there'. This means that it doesn't change no matter how many things you are talking about.

Dans ma ville, il y a une piscine
In my town, there is a swimming pool

Dans ma ville, il y a des magasins
In my town, there are some shops

Dans ma ville, il n'y a pas de musée
In my town there isn't a museum

Weeks 3 and 4 - Grammar

On peut

'On peut' is an expression used to mean 'you can' or 'we can'.

It is always followed by a verb in the infinitive (the 'to' form of the verb that you find in the dictionary).
Infinitives always end in -ir/-re/-er.

For example:

On peut regarder un film au cinéma
You can watch a film at the cinema

On peut manger au restaurant
You can eat at a restaurant

On ne peut pas aller au parc
You can't go to the park

Weeks 5 and 6 - Grammar

The past tense with être

Normally to form the past tense we use:

- 1) A noun or personal pronoun
- 2) The verb 'avoir' in the present tense
- 3) The past participle

To form the past tense for the verbs 'aller', 'sortir', and 'rester' we use:

- 1) A noun or personal pronoun
- 2) The verb 'être' in the present tense
- 3) The past participle

For example: je suis allé - I went je suis resté - I stayed

If the subject of the verb is feminine add an -e to the past participle. If the subject is plural, add an -s.

Elle est allée - She went
Ils sont allés - They went
